

TIME	SUBJECT	SPEAKER
8.00 - 8.45 45 min	Breakfast
8.45 - 9.00 15 min	Welcome	Natascha Rée Mikkelsen and Knud Foldschack "Repatriate the Children - Denmark"
9.00 - 9.30 30 min	The moral, legal and political dilemmas which the children in the prison camps implicate governments over the world (EN)	Dr. Thomas Renard Senior Research Fellow at the Egmont Institute in Brussels
9.30 - 10.00 30 min	How do we find a solution for the about 10,000 foreign women and children caught in northeastern Syria? (EN)	Peter Galbraith Former diplomat for the United States, author, politician and policy advisor
10.00 - 10.25 25 min	Denmark's experience with deracilising returned foreign fighters	Kasper Fisker Chief of Staff at the Danish Criminal Preventive Unit and leading criminologist at PET
10.25 - 10.40 15 min	Break
10.40 - 11.05 25 min	A father and grandfather's year-long fight for the repatriation of his daughter and grandchildren from Syria (EN)	Kamalle Dabboussy Father and grandfather to an Australian woman and her three children in al-Roj camp
11.05 - 11.30 25 min	The traumas after the war and staying in the prison camps. How do we treat these people in the best way possible?	Sadia Khan Clinical psychologist at DIGNITY - Danish Institute against Torture
11.30 - 12.00 30 min	Experience with the repatriation from the Syrian prison camps and the following long-term confinement (EN)	Clive Stafford Smith Human Rights lawyer and co-founder of the NGO 'Reprieve'
12.00 - 12.45 45 min	Lunch
12.45 - 13.15 30 min	The fight to bring back his seven orphaned grandchildren safely to Sweden and the foundation of 'Repatriate the Children' (EN)	Beatrice Eriksson and Patricio Galvez Founders of 'Repatriate the Children - Sweden'

TIME	SUBJECT	SPEAKER
13.15 - 13.45 30 min	The security threat by leaving the children and mothers in the prison camps	Tore Refslund Hamming Researcher in radicalisation and PhD in jihadism at the European University Institute
13.45 - 14.10 25 min	What are the criminal prosecutions which the mothers can expect when returning to Denmark?	Jørn Vestergaard Professor in Criminal Law at the University of Copenhagen
14.10 - 14.25 15 min	Break
14.25 - 14.50 25 min	The UN's critique of Denmark and 56 other countries for letting mothers and children being held captive for years (EN)	Fionnuala Ni Aolain Professor and UN special rapporteur
14.50 - 15.15 25 min	The administrative withdrawal of citizenship from individuals confined in the Syrian prison camps	Eva Ersbøll Senior Researcher, Danish Institute for Human Rights
15.15 - 15.40 25 min	The conditions for the children growing up in the prison camps al-Roj and al-Hol. (EN)	Letta Tayler Associate Director, Crisis and Conflict Division, Human Rights Watch
15.40 - 16.00 20 min	Break
16.00 - 17.00 60 min	Panel discussion How do we prevent the children and their parents from the syrian prison camps from becoming the next generation of terrorists? (EN)	Peter Galbraith Former US diplomat Maja Touzari Greenwood Affiliated researcher in international security and radicalization, DIIS Janne Tynell Acting Secretary General, Save the Children, Denmark Dr. Thomas Renard Senior Research Fellow at The Egmont Institute in Brussel
17.00 - 18.00 60 min	Panel discussion How is the interaction between Danish and international law, when Danish children and their mothers are imprisoned in Syria, and what obligations does the Danish government have for their security and health?	Knud Foldschack Lawyer and chairman, RTC - Denmark Eva Smith Law professor Tarek Hussein Lawyer & author